London, Oct. 28.-That section of the Cabinet have ing any influence whatever with Home Rule proposals has long been so versed in both the leading principles and the details of the measure that the presentation of a draft of the bill yesterday, if the presentation occurred at all, must have been considered a mere formality. Immediately after the Government was formed Mr. Gladstone constituted everal committees, each charged with preparing the leading measures of the coming session of Parliament The Home Rule committee consisted of Mr. Gladstone himself, Earl Spencer, Str William Vernon Haremort John Morley and Sir George Trevelyan. confidence prevails in the innermost Ministerial circle regarding the absolute unautimity of the Caldnet Committee on the Home Rule schome. With the committee in unison, dissension among the minor members of the Cabinet is improbable.

The Government measures next in importance be-fore the Cabinet are bills dealing with electoral registration reform, publicans' licenses and parish councils All of these have been drafted, and it can be announced that they will form the bulk of the business of the session.

THE ENGLISH COTTON TRADE CRISIS. EXCESSIVE OUTPUT OF THE LANCASHIRE MILLS

London, Uct. 28.-The Impression is growing in Lancashire that the threatened strike of the cotton spinners will be averted. It is asserted that the oriations looking to the arbitration of the questions in dispute between the employers and employes were upon finding that there was little disposition among the members of the Federation to adopt a lock-out in view of the improved condition of the cotton

An authority on cotton, in discussing the situation in Lancashire, says that the main cause of the trouble official manner, though many so called revelations about is to be found by looking not to India, nor yet to it have been published in the European press. Now countries having hostile tariffs, but to Lancashire The productive capacity of the British mills far exceeds the legitimate demands of trade. For twenty years between 1850 and 1870 Lancashire held the position of unquestioned supremacy in the manufacture of cotton goods, and the manufacturers of the Triplice comes forward and declares that the there believed that they would always hold this Their great success, however, invited competition from other places. In 1891 in the United States alone there were about 15,497,300 cotton spindles in operation, the increase for several years being 500,000 a year. In India there were in 1890 as many as 137 mills, with about £12,000,000 capital; 3,274,000 spindles, and 23,412 looms, operated by of yarn, as compared with 1.11d., the cost in Oldham. ferfor military force in order to escape the obligation Even Japan has thirty four-or, according to one report, thirty-eight-mills, just double the number it possessed in 1888. The vast expansion of the German and French cotton trades has also had gleat effect upon the British trade. England has nearly enough spindles to supply the world's demand for yarn, but more than half of this demand is met by other than English manufacturers. Consequently, when only part of the British spindles are run, the inevitable result is to flood the market with their product. Prices maturally fall; and to reimburse themselves in part manufacturers propose to reduce the wages of their spinders.

This authority declares that the ultimate salvation of Lancashire as a cotton-producing centre is to found in new markets, and emphatically not in the attempts to get back the old markets which has gone, or are rapidly going, beyond firitish contre He suggests China as the field for the expansion British trade.

SIR WILLIAM HARCOURT'S EYE TROUBLE. ITS BEARING UPON THE PLAN FOR RELIEVING MR. GLADSTONE OF SOME OF THE BURDENS

OF LEADERSHIP IN THE HOUSE. London, Oct. 28.-Semi-official dentals have been steps reported to have been taker by the Cabinet at its meeting yesterday to decide upon a successor to Sir William Vernon Harcourt in event of the latter's eye trouble preventing him from filling the place of Government leader in the House of Commons, which duty devolves upon in consequence of Mr. Gladstone's decision not to take the leadership except upon occasions when important neasipes are before the House. These denials. however, fail to reassure the Liberals, who kno truth of the statement made regarding Str William's condition. An oculist, whose name is not mentione affirms that Sir William's sight is improving, but this statement conflicts with the opinion of the wellknown experts on the Continent whom Sir Willian recently consulted.

Although Sir William's eyesight is threaten is an active worker through secretaries. He will be able to cope with business so long as it can be onducted through this means, but the diversified work inside the House of Commons will present different conditions.

eedings at yesterday's Cabinet council "The Times" seems to have a report that most nearly approache the facts. It says that Mr. Gladstone keeps the male question of Home Rule out of the consultation of colleagues altogether, and leaves it doubtful whether the present measure is anything more than presented in 1886, with some illogical the bill he presented in 1886, with some illogical variations regarding the release of Fenlan convicts. The Cabinet, "The Times" adds, is trying to take a middle course between satisfying its Irish musters by releasing all the Fenlans and satisfying the bulk of its supporters, who oppose any interference with the course of the law.

At a formal meeting of the Privy Council to-day at Enhancial Castle it was stried that the Queen expected to prorogue Parliament about the middle of January.
